Mack

Mack deliveries in February totaled 899 vehicles, down 5% compared with the year-earlier period. Compared with January this year, deliveries were up 1%.

While the transition to new emissions technology continues to dampen demand, there are signs of ongoing gradual improvement in the economic environment. With extensively tested, highly fuel efficient, fully certified EPA10 products, both of the Group's North American truck brands are well-positioned to capitalize on more favourable market conditions.
